CHOLERA ! BLOODY PLUM! !

THE GRAPENDERG DYSINTERY STRUP oves its discovery to a long residence in tropical climates and the West, where hower complaints prevail so extensively, and where they are attended with such fearful fatality.—These discusses especially the Cholera, have their origin in the existence of aerid flands, which nature refuses to retuin, and which by their formula expulsion, cause a revere complaint, when a timely autiliate will remove all cause for alarm. The most of the remedies in use, lock up the pores of the inestinal canal, and only for a time alleviate the discusse, by preventing the expulsion of the flairs, which will al of the mestinal canal, and only for a time nievide the dis-case, by preventing the expaision of the fluid, which will al-most invariably pour farth again, with increased violence, the nature sometimes overcomes the evil, while the reme-dy alone bears off the praise. Not so with the Graefenberg Desintery Syrup; its ingredients are the natural antidot is of the complaints if changes the nature of the fluids and causes their expaision in a natural manner. It does not leave them to inflame the surface of the stomach and housels but attaction the cause, it neutralness them, and leave them to inflame the surface of the stomach and bowels, but attacking the cause, it neutralness them, and the dise is immediately smoides. It is a great mistake to suppose that a disintery is cared in every instance when the discharges are stopped, for if the acrid secretions are left in the system, there always exists a tendency to discase; as long as the healty secretions are sufficient to overcome the morbid ones, health is preserved; and when the contrary is the case, those remedies most nearly assimilating to the healthy secretions are, as will be evident to everyone, the most natural and beneficial. The operation of this Syrup seems to be threefold: It immediately reaches the sent of disease. to be threefold: It immediately reaches the seat of disease, and arrests its course it instantly seather pain, and restores the system to perfect quiet; the inflamed surface of the

HAVING secured the agency for the sale of FISK' ME. TALLIC BURIAL CASES in Middle. Tennessee, we em it necessary to inform the public of the many adva tages possessed by the offered to us for sale. There are some who honestly think that the Air Exhausted Coffin is superior to the Metallic Case we use; and thers, from interested motives, are constantly endeavo ing to build up a reputation for the same, by comparisons wholly at variance with science and experience. As a proof of our assertions, we give the opinion of J. R. Churros, M. D., one of the most celebrated Chemists of the age, and a gentleman well known to every well informed about Exhausting Am Promores Discomposition.—Any attempt to exhaust the air from a receiver of the nody of a deceased person, would promote rather than retard decor

 Under such an experiment, the expansion of the air within the tissues, would cause more or less fracture, and produce an effect similar to a bruise
 The temperature of the atmosphere would have a groater influence in proportion to the removal of atmospheric The presence of atmosphericair is not essential to decomposition, where any degree of patrefaction aiready ex-sts, as the last change will communicate to other parts, causing their elementary constituents (oxygen, hydrogen nitrogen, and carbon) to separate, and reunite with a simlar effect to that produced by the presence of atmospheric air. Thus, under a constant exhaustation, the effect of an elevated temperature upon the moisture of the body would be more powerful, and, consequently, decomposition more

With these facts emanating from an authority so distin-guished, together with certificates from the most able and learned men of the country in regard to the advantages of "Fiscs Ruman Cases" before us, it is not surprising that we should give our preference to the article we use over every other, all of which have been tendered us for eals, but invariably have we refused to use them.
